TAÜLL

Romanesque Heritage

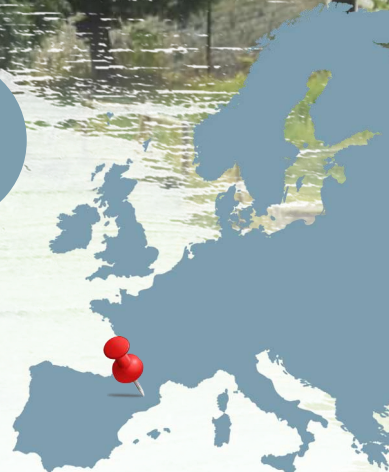

DESCRIPTION

One of the main characteristics of this ensemble of the 8 churches and the hermitage of Sant Climent de Taüll around Vall de Boí is the common architectural style. The temples were all built during the 11th and 12th centuries.

The Romanesque churches of Vall de Boí are the artistic reflection of a society which was structured around the hierarchies of feudalism and clergy, in this case personified in the Lords of Erill and the bishopric of Roda de Isábena, the promoters of these temples. You will feel the legends around these churches and be part of the history!
